Introduction

Jenkins Roth was reeling from the deathbed confession of his father Kyle Roth when a college acquaintance Dave Duncan suddenly appears at Willie's Bar. Dave pushes Jenkins to join him in an underground society that vows to right wrongs. If you like espionage and secret societies in the 21st Century; this book is for you.

Prologue- Helmut Schnell

(This includes excerpts from “Snap”)

Helmut Schnell was the personification of evil. He was an executive in a global cult known as "The Lords of Brimstone". It was a group made of Politicians, World Leaders, Judges, Prosecutors, Business movers and shakers, Hollywood elitists, in general, those who seemed to be the true "leaders" of society. Schnell oversaw purchasing children for their lavish sex parties, he also recruited new members for their group of contributors including Kyle Roth.

Kyle Roth was a lackey for Schnell. Schnell was the Chief Executive Officer of Sethritch Pharmaceuticals. Roth was the second in charge and more importantly was a seemingly never-ending line of young and voluptuous interns. One of them, a buxom twenty-something named Tiffany Alexander was to play a major part in The Lords latest endeavor, human sacrifice.

At Sethritch Pharmaceuticals, The Lords were funding genetic enhancement research. Led by Dr Martin Davis, they were able to produce an almost prehistoric snapping turtle. What was the end game? Hard to say, but the goal was to develop humans who could register astronomical strength and strange physical enhancements and with the new research in Artificial Intelligence, who knew how cutting edge the experiments could advance?

Only neither Roth nor Schnell would live to see any of the developments.

Kyle Roth dropped a truth bomb at the Sheriff's office. Jenkins was there with him for support along with Wilfred Lewis, his attorney. "You sure you want to do this?", Freddie asked.

Kyle simply shook his head yes and then confessed to all kinds of terrible things.

Sheriff Gunnar Thompson put Kyle in solitary confinement. He wasn't sure how deep all these accusations went and quite frankly; if what he said was true; then he was NOT safe.

Mike Taylor walked into the jail. He was the 70-year-old father of Wendell Taylor. Kyle had confessed to killing Wendell when they were teenagers. Kyle claimed it was an innocent act that somehow went sideways. Deputy Tank Elsworth was surprised when he saw Mike.

"Mike?"

"Hi Tank. I have a question; can I see Kyle Roth?". Mike asked.

"Oh Mike, that seems like a terrible idea. Why would you want to talk to him?", Tank asked.

"Well, I want to forgive him, Tank. You can be there. I can just talk through the bars", Mike said.

"We don't have bars anymore Mike, you watch too many movies", Tank said, "you can talk to him on that phone over there. Let me call to the back and see if Charlie can get him on the monitor".

"Okay, whatever you need to do", Mike replied.

Tank called to the back, but Charlie didn't answer. "Who is this?"

"FBI Agent Rhodes. Just watching inmate Roth. Seeing if I can glean anything, "Rhodes" said.

"Can you get Roth on the monitor? Just be a second. I know that it isn't visitation hours, but I think this might be good for him", Tank said.

After a few minutes, Roth appeared on the screen. All that Mike could see was Kyle's face and his county issued orange shirt.

Kyle picked up the phone, "Mr. Taylor, what..."

Mike interrupted Kyle, "let me get this out while I can. Kyle, I forgive you. I forgive you because it is the right thing to do. Not because I like you".

Kyle began to cry, "I am so sorry, Mr. Taylor".

Mike interrupted again, "we don't need a discussion Kyle ", he hung up the phone, got up and left.

Officer "Rhodes" grabbed Kyle and cuffed him, "come on inmate, back to your cell".

Kyle turned and started walking down the hall, when he felt a sharp, cold, metal pain in his back. He dropped to his knees, "Why? What? Oh Lord, please forgive me".

The knife had plunged deep into his back and the perpetrator lifted Kyle off the floor as he drug the knife up his back. In a moment, Rhodes was gone out the back door.

Helmut was floating in the water on the blowup in Barbara's huge pool. He was smiling. He spoke out loud to himself, "wonder if Officer Rhodes has finished the business". He then broke into a large smile as a shadow cast over him. He looked up to the side of the pool. A figure had appeared virtually out of nowhere.

"Oh, it's you. Vat are you doing here?"

The figure just smiled and reached into his jacket. He pulled out a gun and aimed it at Helmut.

"Vat de hell?" screamed Helmut.

The figure pulled the trigger rapidly. He fired at least three shots into the head of Helmut Schnell as his brains exploded out the back of his head. The figure laughed and was gone as quickly as it had appeared.

Seven cars driven by different levels of law enforcement spun up the drive of the Roth Estate. Sheriff Gunner Thompson took the lead because they felt it would be less assuming, as if that were possible.

Following the knock, Barbara strolled to the door and was shocked as she opened it. "Sheriff?", she said as she stretched her neck around to see the crowd of law.

"Barbara, we are here with a warrant for the arrest of Helmut Schnell, is he here?", Gunner asked.

"Uh, well", Barbara stammered.

"Barbara don't lie. These here men are FBI", he said. She merely stepped aside.

The lawmen spread out and moved through the house, "he is in the pool. No reason to destroy my house".
